

Certified Protection Professional Study Group - 2010

The Certified Protection Professional designation prepares practitioners for higher-level responsibilities and provides a credential that can significantly advance one's career. CPP certification has been internationally recognized as the standard of professional competence in security management for more than 30 years.

To earn CPP certification, you will be tested on the body of knowledge. The CPP Review is designed to review information you need to know and confirm your understanding of the principles of each domain.

Who Should Attend:

The CPP Study Group is designed for CPP candidates. This includes security practitioners that qualify to write the CPP Exam and are preparing for the exam.

How You Will Benefit:

- Strengthen your understanding in the key concepts and practices of security management. Gain valuable insights in how to apply your knowledge to the exam.
- Evaluate your level of knowledge and assess your skills. Identify areas of strength and those areas that may require additional preparation
- Take practice tests and get feedback on your answers. The questions are similar to those you may expect to encounter on the actual exam.
- Build relationships and share study tips with others who are also preparing for the exam.
- Learn proven test-taking strategies to help improve your performance on the exam. Leave with handouts useful in developing your own study plan.

Sessions:

The 2010 CPP Study Group Program is scheduled to commence on Wednesday February 10, 2010 at 7:00pm. Sessions will be held each Wednesday for 10 consecutive weeks and will be three hours in length.

There will be a mandatory registration and information session held on January 27th, 2010 to register participants, explain the format and participant expectations and qualify all interested parties.

The program is being hosted at the offices of:

Total Security Management Services Inc.,
1200 Eglinton Avenue East, Suite #600
Toronto, ON.

Note: Free parking is available.

During these sessions, students will review the following domain topics:

- Security Principles and Practices
- Business Principles and Practices
- Personnel Security
- Physical Security
- Information Security
- Crisis Management
- Investigations
- Legal Aspects

Students will each be assigned a domain topic to complete an in class presentation using approved reference materials.

There is a small fee of $150 for each participant in the program. This fee covers the cost of the study materials (binder of information and sample questions) and any other incidental costs associated with running the program.

The program is open to all qualified ASIS Int'l Toronto Chapter members in good standing, or those persons who wish to become a member.
